

Police Break Up Youthful Mt. Pocono Burglary Gang

TOWNSHIP and State Police yesterday arrested 14 Barrett and Paradise Township youths and charged them with between 30 and 35 burglaries over a period of about two years.

Cpl. Joseph DiPietro of the Mt. Pocono barracks of the State Police said the group, ranging in age from 15 to 17, had been under surveillance for about a year prior to the arrests. DiPietro was assisted in the case by Harry Campbell, Barrett Township police chief.

DiPietro said the group had burglarized summer homes, business places and a railroad station in the two townships. The first clue police had was when the group began to sell whiskey taken in some of the burglaries.

DiPietro said the amount of loot taken is in excess of $5,000. All were released in the custody of their parents pending appearance in Monroe County Juvenile Court.

Investigators said the youths arrested yesterday were members of an organization devoted to crime. The group had mimeographed application blanks and a system of promotion to various ranks based on the number of burglaries participated in.

THEY CLEANED UP—This arsenal and assorted other loot was recovered by State and Township police yesterday with the arrest of 14 Barrett and Paradise Township teenagers, accused of between 30 and 35 burglaries over a two-year period. Value of loot was estimated at $5,000. (Coffman and Meyung Photo)

Pentagon Asks More Polaris Sub Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon reversed itself and asked Congress Wednesday for 39 million dollars to start building six more Polaris submarines.

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. told the House Appropriations Committee the Navy now also is willing to put off getting funds for two of three nuclear attack submarines already included in the new budget.

Should tests planned for August meet expectations, he said, the Navy may ask for money to complete construction of nine new nuclear-powered vessels — the three already in the budget plus six more. All told, they would cost about 900 million dollars.

The action was a victory for Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, who had been plugging unsuccessfully for an immediate start on six more Polaris submarines. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had spoken out against such a speedup in the Polaris program.

Gates explained the new request by saying recent tests of the Polaris submarine "have fully met our expectations."

He took the proposal to Congress after getting approval for it from President Eisenhower earlier in the day. Twining, Gates and his deputy secretary, James H. Douglas, met with Eisenhower at the White House. But details were not made public until later in the day.

Eisenhower, as expected, also formally approved shifting defense funds to speed production of Polaris submarines already ordered, increase the size of six Atlas intercontinental missile squadrons and improve the ballistic missile warning system.

There emerged one major new detail of the Air Force plans to strengthen its Atlas squadrons. Douglas said the last six of the 13 planned squadrons—to be in place by the end of 1962—each would have a total of 13 missiles, three more than present plans.

Allan Keough from Stroud Union High School was named second alternate for the Navy Science Cruise Award.

This was the 14th Annual Lehigh Valley Science Fair and gathered together students from 75 schools scattered throughout the Lehigh Valley.

George M. Hallett, chairman of the board, said after the meeting the supervisors will "cooperate fully" with the Dept. of Forests and Waters in the project.

Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, forests and waters secretary, said earlier this week the department had definite plans for construction of the dike.

Hallett said that as soon as property releases are obtained, necessary papers will be forwarded to Harrisburg to expedite the project.

The dike will be 740 long, 10 feet above the creek level. Six hundred feet of it will be rip rap to prevent erosion.

Missionary Reports On The Congo

By Rod MacLeod

SALVATION Army Maj. Gabrielle Bequet, missionary of Lower Belgian Congo believes that the test of all mission work in Africa is at hand. The day of testing for all missions, Protestant, Catholic or Salvation Army, since missions began, will arrive with African Independence. Will the missions stay, or be unwelcome, is the big question.

Maj. Bequet believes that in the lower Congo, missionaries of all denominations will still be welcomed to help build a new country. Never in her 24 years in Belgian Congo has she had any threat of harm or unkindness shown to her. There are 12 million people in the Congo, half of them are still heathen. Some just do not care to hear the Gospel of Christ and others have not yet had the opportunity to hear.

To those who will hear the Gospel brings freedom, freedom from old Taboos, and freedom to be a human being.

Charming Woman
Maj. Bequet is a charming wisp of a woman with a twinkle in her eye and talks with a strong French accent. She was born near Mons, Belgium, and taught school there before attending Salvation Army School in London, England.

She spent 24 years in the Belgian Congo teaching elementary grades and high school. African children are very clever and extremely eager to learn, having excellent learning power, she said. Children are taught French, a Congo universal language at the age of six along with Lingala, the language of the native police and military. Girls are taught home-making in little model houses and boys instructed in the art of tools and a trade. On graduation the boys are given a complete set of the tools of their trade with which they may make a living.

One of the challenges is to produce native preachers to carry on the work of the Lord. To help the natives help themselves is the important work of

Italian Suit Is Refused
LONDON (AP)—Angelo Litrico, the Roman tailor who makes suits for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, recently brought a suit for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to 10 Downing Street. An official told him Macmillan could not accept the suit—he gets his clothes in Saville Row, London's tailoring center.

The Dempsey-Tunney fight Sept. 22, 1927, drew the biggest gate in boxing history. The bout attracted 104,943 fans into Soldier Field in Chicago for a paid attendance of $2,658,660.

CONGO MISSIONARY—Maj. Gabrielle Bequet, of the Salvation Army, a missionary in the Belgian Congo, is shown talking with Dr. LeRoy Koehler yesterday at East Stroudsburg State College. She spoke to several school groups in the area.

Salvation Army schools in the heart of Africa.

Schools Modern
The school buildings are of most modern construction, very similar to those we have here in the U.S.

This is Maj. Bequet's first visit to the U.S. and she is most impressed. Speaking before the East Stroudsburg Jr. High School and State Teachers College, and Stroud Union High, she remarked how strange it was to see before her so many different faces. After 24 years it is quite a change. One of the highlights of the assembly programs were the showing of color slides of African Schools and School children. Afterward a question and answer period provided a lively finish.

Pupils at the J. M. Hill School would have kept her past her college appointment with their barrage of questions of all kinds. Dr. LeRoy Koehler, president of State College conducted her on a tour of the campus, including the cafeteria during rush hour. Also in the party were Maj. William Harvey, Young People's secretary, Scranton and Capt. Charles Drummond of Salvation Army Citadel, East Stroudsburg.

Maj. Bequet is anxious to get back to Africa and its people, the love of her life. When she left, they asked "Are you coming back? More than ever we need your leadership to help build a new country."

When asked about her biggest thrill she replied, "Whenever I meet one of my former pupils, whether in a big city on in the Bush and see his beautiful big smile, is the greatest thrill and pay enough for me."

Lions Club Makes Donations To Various Worthy Causes

THE BOARD of directors of the Stroudsburg Lions Club at their meeting Tuesday voted to make four donations. A check of $250 was sent to the Agadir, Morocco Lions Club to help alleviate suffering in that earthquake-ridden city.

A contribution of $100 was made to Rev. Wellesley Devitt, an African missionary, who has been working, teaching, building and bringing Christianity to bush natives for the past 25 years.

Twenty-five dollars went to the Pennsylvania Lions Sight Conservation and Eye Research Committee. The money will be used in research work on diseases of the eye. Seventy million people in the U. S. have eye defects. But ten times as much is spent on research to prevent blindness. One person becomes blind every 20 minutes.

Another contribution of $25 was made to the Northeastern Lions Eye Bank in Easton. Eyes sent to this bank are used for corneal transplants. In the brief history of this bank, eyesight has been restored to 27 persons with eyes furnished by it. Several of these eyes were sent from Stroudsburg. The Lions Club has pledge cards which a person may use to donate his eyes upon death. Pledge cards are also available at the Monroe County General Hospital.

It was announced that the Lions State convention would be held in Philadelphia on May 22, 23 and 24. Delegates to this affair are Dr. Paul Maxwell, J. Joseph McCluskey, Dr. Gail Fegley, Lester Abelloff, Richard Shook, Joseph Michel and John Price.

The Lions International convention will take place in Chicago on July 5, 6, 7 and 8. Delegates to this meeting are Dr. Paul Maxwell and John W.

Burglary Case Proves Knotty Problem To Police—Just How Much Was Stolen?

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Robert M. Harris set out Wednesday to solve a rare problem created by conflicting statements of how much was stolen from the home of a coal mine operator.

He said he means to conduct his own investigation of "a very puzzling case, one that baffles us." "It's the first case I can recall in which the thieves exaggerated the loot—in this case by more than 100 times," Harris asserted. "It's been my experience that the opposite is usually true. Ordinarily, it's the victims who exaggerate, without really meaning to do so."

John Rich, owner of the Gilberton Coal Co., said thieves took jewelry and $3,500 in cash from a safe in his home on Aug. 7 while he and his wife were in Europe.

But police say some of the five persons arrested since last Sunday have reckoned the loot at from $96,000 to $375,000, all in cash.

Detective Capt. Clarence Ferguson, of Philadelphia, mentioned an even higher figure—$478,000, mostly in cash. At a hearing Tuesday he said this figure was based on information he received, but never substantiated.

Harris said he'll confer with police, go over statements by those arrested and talk to Rich and his lawyer.

Four of the five were freed Tuesday night on bail totaling $30,000. They are Mrs. William M. Reis, 30, owner of Philadelphia's Celebrity Room night club, Ralph Staino Jr., 27, her floor manager, and Vincent Blaney, 30, and Robert Poulson, 20, also of Philadelphia.

Clyde S. (Bing) Miller, 53, of Forked River, N. J., vice of Pottsville, was released Wednesday on $5,000 bail.

All are charged with larceny and burglary of $3,500 cash, and jewelry worth $17,000.

Meanwhile, a warrant is out for the arrest of John Berkery, 30, of Haddon Township, N. J.

Miss Reis and Staino denied any involvement in the crime. Ferguson says they thought up the burglary and got others to do it.

Miss Reis, upon her release from jail, said she would return to work at the Celebrity Room, where she was a dancer before she bought the club in January.

Major Dependent

For whom do you work—and why do you work?

The obvious answer, of course, is that you work for your employer or for yourself, and that the reason you work is to provide the wherewithal of living.

However, such an answer is an oversimplification nowadays.

If you are an average citizen, more than a quarter of your eight-hour working day is done on behalf of government. In essence, government is your master during that period, and takes all of your earnings.

Here are the figures as issued by tax authorities: Taxes take two hours and 16 minutes of every eight-hour working day.

By way of contrast, food and tobacco together demand one hour and 28 minutes; household operations, one hour and 24 minutes.

If you think taxation and government spending aren't of top importance to you and your family, you're kidding yourself very sadly.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Air Defense Shift

The Air Force decision to hold the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile system to some nine squadrons and spend the money saved on more advanced missile-weapon systems combines efficiency with economy.

Indeed, it has been obvious for a long time that the chief threat to this country would be missiles, not bombers, by the time the Bomarc system was to have been fully ready, around 1965.

The decision to trim the program substantially does not mean, of course, that all air defense against bombers is to be abandoned. The Army Nike-Hercules installations will go forward, and the Air Force will also reactivate the fire control and missile systems development that was dropped when the F-108 fighter program went on the shelf last year.

This will enable the Air Force to modernize its fighters rather rapidly to meet any future sign of increased Soviet emphasis on bombers.

Much of the money to be saved by the Bomarc cutback will go for additional Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles in hardened sites and for acceleration of the Midas, or "spy" satellite development.

Congress ought to approve and encourage this and similar transfers of emphasis where the result will be a useful gain in over-all defensive posture at no added cost.

Unhappily, the Budget Bureau reportedly may hobble the move somewhat by insisting that the money to be transferred from older to newer programs be spent at the same rate, even though some speed-up would be possible and seems fully justified.

This is not the way to encourage further timely reappraisals of defense or other spending plans, and we hope Budget Director Stans will reconsider. The shift of funds would accomplish a prime objective of budget policy: It would give the country more for its money.

The rate at which the funds are to be spent is secondary, and with the comfortable surplus in prospect for fiscal 1961 no arbitrary limitation seems justified.

The Pennsylvania Story

Legislative Big-Stick

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Chances are good the air over Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill will be a maelstrom of blue-black by the time the summer session formally makes its annual debut June 21.

Not that Pennsylvania's governing seat of government is destined to be smitten by a sudden smog, smoke screen or any similar physical occurrence that might be blamed on the elements; at least that is not on the agenda.

But what may cause the pseudo-smog are indications at this time pointing strongly to the fact that when Pennsylvania's 1960 Legislature reconvenes some two months hence on June 6 (following a five-month recess) no quick and final adjournment is in the offing.

The 1960 session may well struggle into the late fall months or even crawl toward the end of the year.

"Impossible" mutters many a casual observer — but these are the same ones who cried "impossible" in 1955 when the session that year stretched over into 1956 to run for a record-long 17 months.

They cried "impossible" again in 1959 — but that session last year spilled over into the opening in January of the 1960 session, which almost immediately after convening went into recess until June 6.

The point at which we are driving is simple this: An administration — the executive branch, that is — never likes to have the legislative branch in its hair. There is always the possibility — and it has occurred with increasing frequency in recent years — that the legislative branch may well crack the whip on the executive branch.

In more contemporary times it did it in 1955, 1957, 1959 — and it is doing it again this year!

In other words, while the Legislature is in session, or in being even in recess, it necessarily breeds a blue-black cloud of threat over an administration.

It is thus currently — by virtue of the fact that the legislative branch is not controlled by Democratic Law-rence Administration forces.

In fact it has been that way since 1955 when the first Democratic administration in 16 long and lean years moved into the gubernatorial suite atop Capitol Hill. Mr. Leader it will be recalled, headed the executive branch brood that year.

Consistently during Democratic tenure since 1955 the donkey riders have not had control of the Legislature.

Anti-administration Republicans have ruled the legislative roost by virtue of the simple fact that they always controlled at least one of the two legislative houses — the Senate.

This in itself has handed anti-administration forces a "veto power" that has been all but supreme in thwarting one Democratic administration scheme or plan after another during the five-year span.

For example, administration Democratic in control of the House who wanted to adjourn finally this year instead of recess, found themselves blipped flat because the GOP-controlled Senate said "no, we'll recess." To adjourn requires the approval of both houses.

The legislative big stick is the one major club minority-bound Pennsylvania Republicans have left in their bag. They have used it to its fullest extent during the past five years of Democratic rule — and they intend to use it as long as they can.

When the Legislature returns to session June 6, legislative Republicans are expected to continue their tight-lipped policy and keep the Legislature "in being" — to the anger and dismay and frustration of Democratic administration stalwarts.

Come June the air over Capitol Hill unquestionably will be somewhat blue-black — after all, this is a critical election year!

Inside Washington

Boxing Faces Inquiry

Washington — The sport of boxing, which got a big boost via television, appears to be in for some rough rounds in the months ahead.

A number of senators are becoming increasingly disturbed over mounting reports that the game is crooked, fixed and rigged to take advantage of the not-too-bright youngsters who annually start a career in the ring in the hopes of making some quick money and getting out.

Senators have made speeches on Capitol Hill calling for a thorough clean-up of the sport. Some have suggested amending the federal anti-trust laws to break up managers' and fight promoters' monopolies, through which they manipulate the game.

Others have suggested that boxing appoint a "Czar" as was done by the movie industry and baseball years ago when unsavory practices threatened them with loss of public confidence.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D, Tennessee), has scheduled hearings into the boxing mess for later this year. The purpose of his committee is to determine whether present laws are adequate to control the situation or whether new ones are needed.

Kefauver says, "Professional boxing should either be straightened out or abolished if it is controlled by a racket-dominated monopoly." More and more people are beginning to think that it is.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Black Explosion

The events in South Africa only dramatized the fragmentation of the world into small nations, the rising temper of nationalism and the explosion of the black, brown and yellow peoples. Population-wise the white peoples are a minority; in the United Nations, its 82 members now represent more pigment than white peoples.

Since 1941, 23 new nations have gained their independence. Most of them mark the break-up of the British, French and Dutch empires. They include about 750,000 human beings. They are:

Burma, Cambodia, Cameroon, Ceylon, Egypt, Ghana, Guinea, India, Indonesia, Israel, Jordan, South Korea, Laos, Lebanon, Libya, Malaya, Morocco, Pakistan, Philippines, Sudan Republic, Syria, Tunisia, South Viet Nam.

It is expected that another eight nations will be established in the near future, representing about 63,000,000 human beings. They are: Togoland, Senegal, Nigeria, Congo, Gabon, French Sudan, Senegal, Madagascar.

It can be seen, from these lists, that most of these people are colored in the sense that they are not white. The domination of the Earth by the white peoples which started with Henry the Navigator (1394-1460), historically not so long ago, has perhaps run its course.

Certainly in the General Assembly of the United Nations, it is not the North European nations which can always produce a majority if the others unite against them, for in that body, it is a numerical majority that counts. This could be another method of conquest if used effectively. Hitler's Nordic dream has collapsed as the result of the war he started.

Way back at the beginning of World War II, I was asked by a publisher to write a book, the idea being that everybody writes books. I said that I would write one to establish that the end result of World War II would be the elimination of the white race from control of the world and that there would, in every colonial or semi-colonial country be a rebellion.

The idea was rejected. The editor thought that my notion was preposterous and that I simply wanted to be sensational. I always suspected that he submitted the thought, for guidance, to the OWI and was told to drop it.

I was very sorry then; perhaps the publisher is sorry now. Foresight is almost an un-American quality.

It was inevitable, after World War I, that this explosion among the pigmented peoples should take place. Actually, its authors are Woodrow Wilson and General Jan Smuts, the South African. When in the Fourteen Points they advocated self-determination, what did they expect? Would it only apply to Finns against Russians or Croats against Serbs?

Race, color, and religion are the most exciting mass emotions. The South African explosion involves all three of these human responses to the emotion of pride. Today there are no underdogs. Only in a very rich society such as we have, do emotionally outworn persons deny race and religion, although they have some difficulty with color.

Name-changers, nose-clippers in our society believe that they have solved the problems of discrimination finally and forever. But they have not solved the problem of pride and that always makes trouble for the group as well as the individual.

The white minority in South Africa wants to forget that there would have been no colored as distinct from Negroes if the white folks had not had Negro mistresses and even wives. The biological intermingling of races produced the intermediate colored elements which, in the past, did not regard themselves as Negroes but they are now giving the enormous Negro population an educated and alert leadership.

Those who wish to dominate and rule must discriminate and master or they will be drowned in the mass. It was this policy which conquered Africa and Asia.

When it was abandoned by 20th Century liberalism, by every country except Soviet Russia, the European empires fell and the Asiatic empires were strengthened. But the Asians make discrimination a creed as, for instance, the Arab attitude toward Israel and Jews. Another example may be the Red Chinese attitude toward Tibetans, etc.

When empires thrive, the master race asserts its superiority. If there is no superiority, there is no reason for the existence of the empire. Mid-20th Century liberalism has opened many a Pandora's Box, but this one could turn out to be the most unpleasant.

It is expected that another eight nations will be established in the near future, representing about 63,000,000 human beings. They are: Togoland, Senegal, Nigeria, Congo, Gabon, French Sudan, Senegal, Madagascar.

Interpreting The News

Arms Conference Only Propaganda

The Geneva disarmament conference has degenerated early in life to its expected level of deadlock.

After the London disarmament conference, the big powers were put under heavy pressure of public opinion in the United Nations to keep pursuing the dream, regardless of the existence in the world of a new type war which could produce shooting at any time.

The Soviet Union refused to have any more to do with the idea as long as she was outnumbered at the conference table. Some of her satellites were then admitted to the circle, as Byelorussia and the Ukraine, wholly integrated Soviet states, had been admitted to the U.N. originally. The current 10-nation discussion is the result.

Some slight hopes for agreement were entertained in the West because of a belief that the Soviet Union, finding it was still far behind in economic ability to fight the cold war both at home and abroad, wished to shift the balance between economic and military power. There were demands in the Soviet Union as well as in underdeveloped countries for some realization of economic dreams long deferred.

The slight hopes snowballed into a world clamor for peace, ignoring world situations which, if frozen in their present shape, could only be expected to pen up pressures for later violent explosions.

Public opinion was directed toward an end rather than toward the means to an end.

The Baltic states and Eastern Europe remain subjugated. Germany, Korea and Viet Nam remained divided. The people of mainland China continue to protest against their Red rulers. More and more these rulers at Peiping insist on their enemy to ward all the non-Communist world.

This non-Communist world, led by the Western powers, does not believe these situations can or should be frozen.

International communism not only believes they can be frozen, but that new and similar situations can be extended for their own benefit.

The Soviet Union, for its own purposes, pretends that this extension can take place without war. Communist Peiping has restated its own view that war cannot be excluded, and actually seems to be hoping that another war will occur to aid Communist expansion.

Against this background, the disarmament conference becomes merely a propaganda conference, unable to agree because its terms of reference were unreal in the beginning, unable to quit in the face of human hope.

The Allen-Scott Report

Preventive Build-Up

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — That Army announcement that 2,000 battle-ready paratroopers are being sent to Okinawa is just the beginning.

Air Force and Navy reinforcements are following shortly.

The Chinese Nationalist force is being "beefed up" with century series superperson interceptors, including Jet F-104s.

Congressional leaders have been told these measures are part of a new "preventive" strategy instituted by the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Far East with President Eisenhower's approval.

Purpose of this strategy is to avert new military aggressions that Red China is clearly brewing in Laos and the long-threatened Formosa Straits.

In the past several weeks, Intelligence has reported a number of ominous developments in these regions, among them:

Considerable increase in Communist air activity, following a build-up of more than 300 MIG-17s and MIG-19s on 10 bases near Quemoy and Matsu, the heavily fortified Nationalist strongholds off the Chinese mainland.

Red pilots are displaying much more aggression and skill, and for the first time have outmaneuvered Nationalist pilots.

Communist Pathet Lao forces in northern Laos are being reinforced, re-equipped and resupplied from North Vietnam, with indications pointing to an offensive next month to influence the election in Laos for a new Parliament.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff are particularly concerned over the increasing danger of Red China gaining air superiority in the Formosa Straits. Intelligence has warned this is a very real possibility because of three factors:

(1) The big increase in the number of Communist planes; (2) the greater speed and fire power of these new planes; and (3) the unmistakable improvement in Red piloting and fighting.

What's Strikingly Demonstrated — That was strikingly demonstrated in two recent unreported air clashes — in which the Reds for the first time eluded the previously deadly Sidewinder air-to-air missile.

In the first encounter, near Matsu Island, 10 Communist MIGs damaged four of eight Nationalist Jets, including two equipped with Sidewinders. Particularly significant was the ability of one Red jet to divert a Sidewinder. This had never happened before.

In the second clash, the Nationalist pilots reported that one MIG-19 appeared to be able to maneuver so as to escape two Sidewinders. In every other instance in the past, these missiles had destroyed their targets.

In both these encounters, the Nationalist pilots were among their best with much combat service.

Admiral Harry Felt, Pacific commander-in-chief, has personally sought congressional approval to strengthen the Nationalist air force.

He did that at a private meeting with the House Foreign Affairs Committee while it was considering a proposal for $200 million military aid to the Nationalists, approximately double this year's total.

"We must not let a situation develop," Felt warned, "where the Communists can operate with impunity in the Formosa Straits, or any other area in Southeast Asia. We are confronted with a very critical problem in the defense of Formosa and the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu. The Communists are constantly building up their military strength in this vital region.

They are getting new and better MIGs, and their pilots are becoming more aggressive and skillful. It is imperative that we equip the Nationalists with better planes, of the century series, or they are going to become the second-best air force. And I cannot stress too strongly the immediate danger out there—steadily increasing and more effective Red air probes."

Similarly, Admiral Felt warned of the likelihood of new Red aggression in Laos. Pointing to critical sections on a map of this strategic Southeast Asian country, he told the committee:

"We have been able to bring some order out of the chaos in the military situation in Laos. But much is happening there which makes it very clear the Communists are preparing new aggression, probably a series of powerful attacks to influence next month's parliamentary elections.

"At present, there is a great deal of Communist regrouping, re-equipping and re-supplying. Although little or nothing is being published about it, the fact is people are being killed there all the time in guerrilla warfare. These sections I have pointed out are completely controlled by the Communists, and they can launch attacks from them at any time, and do frequently."

The U. S. now has more than 475,000 fighting men in the Far East.

"They consist of approximately 240,000 sailors, Marines and naval airmen in our two fleets," Felt said, "and around 65,000 soldiers and 70,000 Air Force personnel on bases in Korea, Japan, Okinawa, the Philippines and occasionally on Formosa."

Inside Washington

Test Ocean For Ships

Washington — The Navy is building its own private, artificial ocean just outside Washington. Its purpose is to make better tests of ship-hull models in simulated wave and current conditions.

The "sea" will be housed indoors at the David Taylor model basin, an installation that has served ship designers for many years. Private designers have been permitted to use the facility and will receive the same privilege when the new installation is completed.

The new tank will be larger and wider than a football field. It will cover more than five acres, measure 350 by 230 feet. It will hold 12 million gallons of water, which will be heated to prevent damage to supporting walls by sudden changes in temperatures. The main body of the sea will be 20 feet deep with a 35-foot trench running down the center.

Cost will be about $12 million, or $1 for each cubic foot of water available for testing. However, experts calculate that the expenditure will actually save the government many millions by minimizing the chances of error in ship design.

Not only will the new basin be able to test surface vessels, it will be equipped with a circular tank deep enough to test the design of submarine hulls.

The entire installation will be equipped with wave-making apparatus to simulate anything from ripples to extreme storm and cross-current conditions, on order from an electronic brain.

As one example of how the basin will work, a ship designer thinking of building a vessel for the New York-Tokyo run will be able to have his test model experience all the oceanic conditions it will encounter on such a trip right at the basin.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A fond papa took his young daughter to hear her first opera. They had seats way down front, and the little girl was particularly fascinated by the orchestra leader. At the height of one aria, she whispered loudly, "Why is the man threatening that fat lady with a stick?"

"Hush," hissed the father. "He isn't threatening her at all." "Then why," persisted the little girl, "is she hollering?"

Traffic Regulations And Repairs Discussed By Stroudsburg Council

TRAFFIC regulations, street repairs and stray dogs were among the subjects discussed by Stroudsburg Borough Council at its meeting last night.

Upon recommendation of Burgess Edward A. Doran and Police Chief John B. Tretheway, Council approved no parking on the north side of W. Main St. from the Morey School to Stroud Union High School and one hour parking on the south side of the same street from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. between the Calso Station and Abbott's Dairies, Inc.

Also approved was a change from diagonal to parallel parking on the north side of Main St. from the Sherman Theater to a fire hydrant near DeVivo-Quaresimo and Sons.

Two other recommendations—for removal of one cent parking meters from all borough streets except in front of the post office and establishment of an annual rate for commercial parking meter users—will be investigated with reports due at the next meeting of Council.

Council directed Borough Manager Harold E. Snyder to confer with the State Highways Dept. regarding the problem of pedestrians trying to cross Fifth St. at Main St. after receiving a complaint from a resident of the area that pedestrians are not protected.

Regarding an earlier request for information on whether or not the highway department would pave W. Main St. If the borough installed curbs and gutters, Snyder reported that Frank Smith, Monroe County superintendent for the department, said it is not on his schedule of work. Snyder said he had written the Allentown office of the department concerning the situation but had received no reply to date.

Snyder said Smith told him patching of W. Main and Dreher Ave. beyond construction now being done on the Stroudsburg Thruway will get underway today.

Council received a letter from

Choir To Give Cantata On Sunday Night

THE Chancel Choir of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will present a Lenten cantata, "Forsaken of Man," by Leo Sowerby at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the church.

Miss Bernina Hostetter, minister of music, will direct the 35-voice choir in the program.

Howard Atwell

Soloists will include Howard Atwell, who will sing the part of Christ. He is assistant professor of psychology at East Stroudsburg State College, who studied voice with Frank Oglesby and Fritz Kreuger, Philadelphia, and Dean Grant of Pennsylvania State University.

Other soloists will be Paul Bartholomew, Kenneth Raessler and Gerhard Gartner.

N'fld. Girl Is Winner

NEWFOUNDLAND — Jean Mary Burdick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Burdick, Newfoundland, won first place in the Regional Forensic Competition yesterday in Norristown.

She is a junior in Southern Wayne Joint High School.

Jobless Riot

TARANTO, Italy (AP)—A thousand jobless farm hands rioted at nearby Manduria Wednesday, hurling stones at police and injuring about 30, none seriously. About 40 of the ringleaders were arrested. The men demonstrated because they had not received unemployment benefits.

There will be no charge for the service unless more than 20 a week are housed, in which case the society said it would have to charge for extra food and work necessitated by the larger number.

Tretheway told Council he has assigned Patrolman Loren Doty to handle all complaints of dogs running loose and that Doty is doing an "excellent" job.

Tretheway previously had announced plans for a stepped up drive against stray dogs.

Larrison Feted By DL&W For Service With Police

RETIRED CAPT. Harold E. Larrison, of the DL&W railroad police, was tendered a testimonial luncheon yesterday by the line for his more than 30 years service.

Capt. Larrison joined the force in 1921, and was promoted to lieutenant in 1956, and to captain in 1958.

Prior to his retirement Jan. 1, 1960, his headquarters were in Scranton.

Before joining the railroad police force, Capt. Larrison was a member of the Elmira, N.Y. police force.

He was described as a very efficient and courageous officer during his service with the force and he is highly regarded throughout the state for his work in law enforcement.

Acting for DL&W president Perry Shoemaker, general manager L. C. Coleman presented Capt. Larrison with an embossed certificate denoting his years of service, while Edward Thomas, superintendent of property protection for the line, presented the officer with his badge, which had been gold-plated for the return.

Anti-Bet Unit Sets Meeting

THE CITIZENS Committee to Defeat Racetrack Gambling in Monroe County will hold an open meeting at 7:30 p. m. today in the YMCA.

The group has as its objective defeat of a proposal to permit harness racing with pari-mutuel betting which will appear on county ballots at the April 26 primary election.

A spokesman said it opposes establishment of a harness race track here on economic and moral grounds and for the good of a growing community.

The committee announced plans for a get-out-the-vote drive to accomplish its objective. Already on record as opposed to harness racing here are the Monroe County Council of Parent-Teachers Assns. and the Monroe County Ministerium.

Officers of the citizens committee include E. H. Wyckoff, general chairman; Gordon Taylor, secretary; Dr. James G. Kitchen, treasurer and chairman of the finance committee; Mrs. Rolland Everitt, chairman of the get-out-

Heart Unit Answers Queries Concerning Certain Defects

ABOUT 30,000 to 40,000 children are born with heart defects in the United States every year, according to the Monroe County Heart Committee. For many of them, prospects in life would be tragically limited if it were not for the remarkable progress that has been made in the surgical correction of these congenital defects.

It is estimated that 75 to 80 percent of such children can now be helped by surgery. To help their parents, the Heart Committee provides guidance and information about community facilities for solving this problem. Here are some of the questions most frequently asked by parents of children with in-born heart defects and the answers supplied by the Heart Committee:

What is meant by "Congenital heart defects?"—This is an abnormality which develops at some point before birth in the infant's heart, or in the major blood vessels near the heart. For example, there may be a hole in the wall between two chambers of the heart; or an open passage between two blood vessels which should not be connected; or a narrowing of a valve or a blood vessel which obstructs the flow of blood. These abnormalities may impair the child's circulatory system and hamper his growth and energy.

What is a "Blue Baby?"—A blue baby may have a malformation of the heart or of the major bloodvessels near the heart which prevents his blood getting enough oxygen. Since blood which is low in oxygen is a dark bluish red, the skin and lips take on a blue tinge. Blueness may also result from conditions other than congenital heart defects.

Why do congenital heart defects develop?—In most cases, the cause is unknown. Many medical scientists believe that if the mother has German measles during her first three months of pregnancy, this may be some cases damage the baby's heart. The possibility that other virus diseases may be involved and the role of heredity are being studied.

Must all children with operable heart defects have surgery?—If the defect is mild, surgery may never be necessary. In some cases, if the patient does well with or without medication the physician may decide that an operation is not indicated.

Can women with congenital heart defects have children?—Many women with mild defects that do not require correction, and many who had successful heart operations can have children. However, this is an individual matter and the patient should discuss it with her physician before attempting to have a baby.

Do congenital heart defects cause mental retardation?—No. When a child with a congenital heart defect is also mentally defective, this usually means that he was born with two major defects, not that the heart malformation affected the brain.

The Heart Committee points out that parents who wish specific information about their child's heart should check with their doctors. The Committee is prepared to give general information about heart and blood vessel disorders of various types. It has just issued a new booklet entitled, "If Your Child Has a Congenital Heart Defect," and is available to parents of children with in-born heart defects, physicians, and other professionals who work with such patients. The booklet may be obtained from the Monroe County Heart Committee, RD 3, Stroudsburg.

State Losing Youth—Batt

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—William L. Batt Jr., state labor and industry secretary, said Wednesday the 1960 census will show how Pennsylvania's unemployment problems are causing young people to leave the state.

In a speech prepared for delivery here at the 51st annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Welfare Forum, Batt said:

"Our youth is a resource we can't afford to waste. One way or another, we can compensate for our loss of mineral resources, top soil, forests and even water. But youth is the stuff of which our future is manufactured. We can't do without it."

He added that unless Congress passes an area redevelopment bill, the problem of unemployment will continue.

State Jobless Numbers Rise

HARRISBURG (AP)—An unusual increase of 7,000 in Pennsylvania's total unemployment figures was reported Wednesday by the State Labor and Industry Department.

William L. Batt Jr., labor and industry secretary, said the number of idled workers for the one-month period ending in mid-March totaled 369,000.

Batt said the increase was contrary to the usual experience at this time of year and was mainly caused by adverse developments in three industries.

State School Bonds Sold To Finance New Buildings

HARRISBURG (AP)—A syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., New York, Wednesday purchased the State Public School Building Authority's first major public issue of bonds worth $16,022,000 at maturity.

The firm bid $15,701,560 for the bonds, to mature in 1999, at an average net interest rate of 4.0038 per cent.

The issue will be used to finance construction of 12 school building projects worth $14,154,000. The PSBA now has an outstanding debt of 198 million dollars.

The other bidder for the bond issue was a syndicate headed by Drexel & Co., Philadelphia. The firm bid $15,703,115 for the issue at a net interest cost of 4.0378 per cent.

The Halsey, Stuart syndicate included 73 investment houses.

PSBA bond interest is tax-exempt, like the interest on municipal bonds. That feature makes them attractive to investors in high income brackets seeking a hedge against high-bracket income taxes.

Previously, PSBA bonds were never sold directly to the public. Rather they were acquired by the state teachers' and employees' retirement funds and resold to the public.

The 12 school construction projects are all located in Western Pennsylvania.

Under PSBA financing the authority pays for the school construction, then the local school district leases the building, amortizing the construction costs through rental payments. When the construction costs and interest are paid off, the building reverts to the school district.

In effect, this means the Commonwealth underwrites part of the PSBA bonds, even though they are sold by a separate agency not directly responsible to the Commonwealth.

That is because the state subsidizes part of the rentals paid the PSBA.

The districts which will benefit from the new issue are: Baden Economy (three projects), $1,778,275; Western Beaver County, $1,637,000; Greater Gettysburg, $1,117,840; Northern Cambria, $1,708,580; Redbank Valley, $603,977; Johnstown Area, $1,901,000; Franklin Twp., $375,760; Perry District, $368,733; South Strabane Twp., $712,492; Trinity, $3,960,740.

Award Depot Paint Job

TOBYHANNA — Seaboard Painting Contractors, Inc., of Baltimore, Md., has been awarded a $50,500 painting contract by the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna. It was announced yesterday.

The contract, one of the largest to be issued by the depot, is for painting the cinder block exterior of seven large warehouses and several smaller buildings.

The Baltimore firm submitted the lowest bid of 19 competing contractors from several states.

Unsuccessful area bidders were Gagliardi Bros., Pittston; R. M. Frantz, Stroudsburg; Rehig's, Dunmore and William W. Davis, Wilkes-Barre.

Nations Sign Pact

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Canada and Pakistan have signed an agreement whereby Ottawa will give $1½ million dollars toward building a hydroelectric project in West Pakistan.

De Gaulle Story Proves Fiction

LONDON (AP)—A story going the rounds here said President Charles de Gaulle wore to London the same general's uniform in which he left England in 1944 to lead Free French forces. "A very romantic notion," said a French Embassy spokesman, "but that suit would hardly do today. Since then the President has put on 30 pounds."

Health Faddist

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio says 61-year-old Aleksey Polikarpov plans to top his recent 2,300-mile walk from Omsk to Leningrad with a 6,250-mile hike.

Red Miners Give Award

MOSCOW (AP)—The sixth congress of Soviet coal miners has awarded Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev the Miners' Glory Badge First Class for "his efficient activity in building up the trade unions and his tremendous services in developing the coal mining industry of the Soviet Union." Khrushchev was a coal miner in his youth.

Sign Film Pact

ROME (AP)—The Soviet and Italian film industries have signed an agreement to boost film exchanges between the two countries.

Officers At Signal Depot

TOBYHANNA — Army Senior Signal Officers from 11 Allied nations will arrive at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot today for a two-day visit.

The group is on an extensive observation tour of U. S. Army Signal Corps installations. Nations represented include Belgium, Brazil, Ecuador, France, Iran, Italy, Korea, Saudi Arabia, Spain, Taiwan, Thailand and Vietnam.

A reception and dinner honoring the visitors will be held at Pocono Manor tonight.

Tiros I Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tiros I, America's weather-eye satellite speeding around the earth once every 99 minutes, photographed cloud covers over much of the United States Wednesday.

Major Erich Hartman of Germany is said to have shot down 352 Allied craft in World War II. Baron von Richtofen's claim for World War I was only 80.

Educator Dies In Easton

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — Paul B. Eaton, 71, professor emeritus of mechanical engineering at Lafayette College and former technical adviser to China, died Tuesday at Easton Hospital after a prolonged illness.

Eaton, who retired from Lafayette in 1963, was a member of the Purdue University team sent to Formosa by the Mutual Security Administration from 1953-55 to investigate steps to rehabilitate a college of engineering.

From 1943-44 he was sent by the U.S. State Department on a special mission to China to maintain Chinese industries.

Eaton, a native of Scranton, graduated from Cornell University in 1911. He became assistant professor in mechanical engineering at Lafayette in 1924, and in 1931 was made professor and the head of the department.

He is survived by his widow and a son. Funeral services will be held Thursday at Lafayette College.

DL&W Gives Trio New Positions

HAROLD J. Gilmartin has been appointed Assistant General Counsel for the Lackawanna Railroad, the company announced yesterday. Gilmartin was formerly General Attorney for the railroad.

At the same time it was announced that Richard E. Costello, formerly Commerce Counsel, and Richard B. Wachenfeld, formerly Assistant General Attorney, have been appointed General Attorneys.

Gilmartin began his career with the Lackawanna in the Freight Claims Department at Scranton and thereafter joined the Law Department in New York. He has held the positions of Attorney, Assistant General Attorney and General Attorney. Gilmartin is a graduate of Fordham College and Fordham Law School. He resides at Mountain Lakes, N. J.

Joined In '53

Costello became associated with the Lackawanna as Commerce Counsel of February 2, 1953. His prior legal experience was in California and the District of Columbia, having been admitted to the Bar in both places.

Costello is a graduate of Hastings College of Law, University of California, and of George Washington University. He resides at 40 East 72nd St., New York City.

Wachenfeld entered the service of the Lackawanna on August 1, 1956 as Assistant General Attorney (New Jersey), after having been associated with the law firm of Mead, Gleason, Hansen & Pantages, Newark, New Jersey.

Wachenfeld is a graduate of Lafayette College and Cornell Law School. He resides at 765 Valley Street, Orange, N.J.

Railway Express Gets PUC Okay

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission yesterday authorized Railway Express to discontinue its part time agents in Towanda.

The company must give 15 days notice of any cutback in service. The company will continue truck pick-up and delivery service and expand it at the request of citizens of the area.

The agent has been doubling as the pick-up and delivery man. The commission said the change will mean he can devote the time not spent in the Towanda office in driving his truck.

Teen-Agers Early Romances Have Teachers Across Country Bothered

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of three articles on what teachers think about teen-agers.

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

PEOPLE ARE constantly amazed these days at the tender age at which youngsters begin dating.

Even more amazing is the age at which many of them begin going steady and exchanging rings to cement the bonds of their precocious affection.

Our previous surveys among teen-agers confirmed this trend and disclosed that the youngsters saw no great evil in it. But how do their teachers feel about it?

To get their viewpoints, we went to teachers across the country and asked them to make frank appraisals of the dating and going-steady habits of their students. The teachers interviewed ranged from novices to veteran educators, and included those in all classes and grades from grammar school through high school, in cities large and small.

First of all: does the problem exist in the eyes of teachers?

Indeed it does. Of the teachers questioned, 80 per cent said that boys and girls tend to date at an earlier age than was once the case.

Some teachers blamed it on the schools themselves for encouraging the youngsters through school dances and other co-educational activities; others criticized lax parental control, the nation's growing urbanization, increased prosperity, increased insecurity among youngsters, tightening social pressures, and a hundred and one other things.

Too Much Freedom? Here is just a sampling of the reasons cited:

"I think professional dance instruction at an early age has definitely contributed." — J. Robert Pease, Peekskill, N. Y.
"More freedom, fewer restrictions at home." — Milton R. Oudney, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"More dating opportunities today and increased community recreational facilities and school activities that encourage dating." — Marjorie S. Marshall, Indianapolis, Ind.

"Parents want more freedom. They allow their children to do what they please." — L. E. Bloomer, Toledo, Ohio.

"Progressive education's emphasis on socialization." — Barbara D. Herr, Liberty, N. Y.
"They transportation, communication and increased population." — Ardena Leer, Grand Haven, Mich.

While the teachers were nearly unanimous in agreeing that youngsters today date at an early age, they were pretty much divided on the consequences.

Of those interviewed, 35 per cent thought it had a bad effect on discipline (compared with 52 per cent who felt it didn't); 45 per cent thought it had an adverse effect on scholarship (compared with 37 per cent who felt otherwise); and 28 per cent thought it had a bad effect on student health (compared with 50 per cent who thought it didn't).

As for going steady, 51 per cent of the teachers regarded the practice as bad for their students and only 3 per cent thought it good. However, a surprisingly large number, 39 per cent, hadn't decided whether the going-steady habit was good or bad.

Here are some typical teacher comments:

"Going steady narrows life, leads to shotgun weddings." — Cyrus Weckerle, Sewickley, Pa.

Special Problems
"Young lovers defy discipline." — Reginald Gelchman, Liberty, N. Y.

"They tend to show off in the presence of one another." — Vivian Dombroski, Scranton, Pa.

"Certain students lose all interest in education with the increasing interest in sex." — Robert O. Badgley, Indianapolis, Ind.

"The old idea of 'study' dates for studying is pretty much a thing of the past." — A. E. Blake-man, Montpelier, Vt.

"The pressure of too many activities and late hours may be harmful." — Eleanor Barnes, Knoxville, Tenn.

"Daydreaming becomes more frequent in class." — Mrs. Margaret Ross, Olean, N. Y.

"Girls are harder to discipline after they become interested in boys." — John O. Miller, Orlando, Fla.

MORE — 910' — MORE
Among the special problems created by students going steady, the teachers listed: pregnancy, early marriages, tardiness, poor attendance, loitering in hallways, fist fights among both boys and girls, diminishing class and school spirit, decreased efficiency in both scholarship and athletics, lack of interest in school activities, shocking public displays of affection.

Many teachers, speaking about school dances, agreed with Robert Meffey of Maumee, Ohio, that "the outsiders are often unhappy, and the GOING STEADY in the puppy-love-league has become a growing problem for teachers and parents today.

steadies are preoccupied."

Can anything be done to combat early dating and the going-steady habit? The teachers were not so sure. Only 43 per cent suggested some kind of a solution, 13 per cent said there was none and 44 per cent either didn't know or didn't answer.

Similarly, 23 per cent of the teachers interviewed figured the situation would get worse before it improved, 31 per cent thought some kind of public reaction might soon set in, and 44 per cent didn't know what to think.

Most of the solutions offered called for either the parents, the school or the community to adopt some regulations controlling the hours, ages and frequency of teen-age dating.

Here are a few samples: "Communities and schools need to plan evening and weekend activities for students." — Robert O. Badgley, Indianapolis, Ind.

"Have courses included in the curriculum explaining the problems involved." — Margaret E. Flake, Detroit, Mich.
"Don't allow students to own or drive cars until 21." — Ronald Krofyard, Clarks Summit, Pa.

"More parental, school and church control and less social affairs." — Elinor Daley, Scranton.

Those who predicted that the situation was bound to improve based their hopes mostly on some kind of a public reaction setting in. "The pendulum has swung too far one way, it is bound to start back soon," commented Jane M. Fisher of Toledo, Ohio.

Hitler Ended 'Phony' War 20 Years Ago--Started WW II

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Twenty years ago, Adolf Hitler tore off the "phony" tag which Europe, the previous September, had put on the war.

Britain and France had thought they could quiet Hitler by concessions at the expense of smaller countries. Hitler had thought he could scare off Britain, capture all of Europe for Nazi purposes. The United States had been swayed in isolationism. The Soviet Union had agreed not to oppose Hitler if he left her alone and kept his territorial promises. Mistakes.

For six months after the fall of Poland, a worried world had wondered whether the Nazis might stop, despite Allied discovery in January 1940 of their plans for a Western Front offensive.

But on April 7 Hitler sent his battle fleet toward the Skagerrak and Norway's ports and massed troops on the Danish border. The question then became, and remained for years, "Could the Nazis be stopped?"

Neutrality took its second great beating of the century, in Norway, Denmark, Belgium and Holland, even as in Belgium in 1914. Holland and Belgium on April 8, 1940 knew what was to come to them in May, but declined to shelve their neutrality in favor of reinforcements from France and Britain. A mistake.

The world stood aghast as the Panzers swept to the Atlantic, to the Mediterranean and Africa.

Then they went into the Soviet Union. A mistake.

Benito Mussolini threw his Fascist Italy in beside Hitler. A mistake.

The third Axis partner, Japan, realizing that in a general world war the United States would be preoccupied with Europe, tried to sweep American naval might from the Pacific in one fell swoop. The one great crowning mistake of all of the Axis.

It all happened in a world where, in the beginning, only Germany, Italy and Japan were prepared for war, though France thought she was.

Today, 20 years since the end of the "phony" war, all of Europe, the United States, the Russian-Chinese heartland of the Eurasian continent and many periphery countries are prepared for war on a scale undreamed of in 1940.

There are bitter conflicts of vast interests. A cloud can easily take the shape of a mushroom. No more room for mistakes.

The Daily Investor

Capital Gains Profits

By William A. Doyle

Q. Two years ago, I invested $1,000 in shares of a certain mutual fund. I have been adding to my investment at the rate of $25 a month. I formerly received dividends and capital-gains distributions every three months. I reinvest all my dividends and capital-gains distributions.

A few months ago, I was notified that dividends will still be paid quarterly but that capital-gains distributions will be made annually. What is the reason for this?

William A. Doyle

Capital gains are the net profits a fund makes by selling securities in its investment portfolio at higher prices than it paid for those securities.

The fund must distribute those capital gains to its shareholders in order to qualify for certain tax advantages. By distributing the capital gains only once a year, the fund has the use of the money longer and might make more profits or earn income on the money.

Also, if the fund distributes the capital gains every three months, some shareholders think of those distributions as income. Capital-gains distributions are not income. They are profits—a return of capital.

Lucky Draw

LONDON (AP) — John Walsh won 22,429 pounds — $52,802 — Tuesday by predicting eight draw matches in a soccer pool—a 22-627,664-to-1 shot. The 27-year-old Irishman spent a fourth of a cent for his pool coupon.

This point has been stressed here often. But the mail-bag indicates that some people still don't believe me. I can only suggest that these people contact the Securities and Exchange Commission. The idea that capital-gains distributions are income is contrary to every rule ever laid down by the SEC.

Further proof is in the fact that a mutual fund shareholder is supposed to report capital-gains distributions as long-term capital gains on his Federal income tax form and his dividends as ordinary income. Don't forget that these rules apply even if you reinvest the money in additional shares of the fund.

Q. Can you explain how the "pink sheets" are compiled?

A. The pink sheets list the quotations of stocks traded in the over-the-counter market—stocks not traded on securities exchanges.

Every morning the National Daily Quotation Service collects current prices on over 6,300 stocks from dealers all over the country. Those prices, plus the names of the dealers "making a market" in the stocks, are mimeographed on colored paper in three editions—one for the East, one for the Midwest and one for the Pacific Coast.

The pink sheets are delivered very early the next morning to over-the-counter dealers who subscribe to the service.

Q. If a stock is quoted in the pink sheets, will it eventually be listed on one of the stock exchanges?

A. Not necessarily. There are many more different securities traded in the over-the-counter market than there are listed on stock exchanges.

Many of the stocks traded in the over-the-counter market can't qualify for listing on the major securities exchanges. In many other cases the stocks could qualify for listings but the companies prefer to have the stocks in the "counter" market.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There's nothing like being asked for advice to make you conscious of your own shortcomings. And it's safe to say that seldom have I been so conscious of my leading paragraphs as I was last night after pontificating about the matter to the Pocono High newspaper staff.

Don't tell them—but I probably learned a lot more than they did and certainly enjoyed the back issues of their newspaper, which also qualifies as a literary magazine, and has a section on fashions which I envy.

The whole school was in sort of a joyous buzz, since they had just heard that three of their students had taken prizes in the Lehigh Valley Science Fair.

In fact this has been sort of a Youth Week for me, having been very much a Senior at the Junior Woman's Club Mother-Senior Night on Tuesday. Juniors are older—and they think more sophisticated—than high school students, but there was the same sort of joyous buzz, this time, of course, about their coming bazaar.

And their musical comedy was a delight. Unfortunately, I came in half-way through and missed the first part. But fortunately like the movies when you come in late, they're going through it again for the County meeting, so I'll get it all eventually.

In fact it's a shame they can't take it on the road. That group can really sing and should be encouraged to decide on one of those "instant" plays for their project next year.

It's been fun—but keeping up with my juniors is certainly one way to make me feel my age. I'm tired just thinking about all the work they've lined up for themselves.

Wesley Chapel WSCS Meets At Frailey's

Bartonsville—The March meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Wesley Chapel was held recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Frailey.

Mrs. Raymond Roberts led a panel discussion on "Missionary Work of the Methodist Church." Others participating were Mrs. Thiel Feller, representing the nursery department; Mrs. Forrest Sebring, kindergarten; Mrs. Clyde White, primary and junior.

World Banks were opened with a ceremony.

Mrs. Robert Bonser presided when plans were made for representatives of the group to attend the annual "Ingathering" at the Pen Argyl Methodist Church.

April 28 was set as the next meeting date.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frailey.

Members attending were Mrs. Gerald Miller, Mrs. Wilson Lee, Mrs. Louis Landmesser, Mrs. Forrest Sebring, Mrs. Thiel Feller, Mrs. Raymond Roberts, Mrs. Robert Bonser, Mrs. Edward Vican, Mrs. Steward Walters, Mrs. Robert Singer, Mrs. Harry Armitage, Mrs. James Owens, Mrs. Wayne Willet, Mrs. Clyde White, Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr. and Mrs. Fred Frailey.

Wayne County Federation On April 19

Newfoundland—Mrs. Russell Van Buskirk, Jr., of Panther, president of the Greene-Dreher Woman's Club, has reminded members of the local unit of the Wayne County Federation meeting at the White Deer Inn, Hawley, on April 19.

An executive session will be held at 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 6:30 p.m. There will be election and installation of officers.

Reservations should be sent to Mrs. Robert Robacker, Newfoundland, by April 13.

Also scheduled for the local unit is the Spring banquet on May 10 at the Lancaster, South Sterling. Deadline for reservations for this event, which will feature installation of officers, is May 3.

There will be no April meeting of the local club.

April Fool Proceeds No Joke

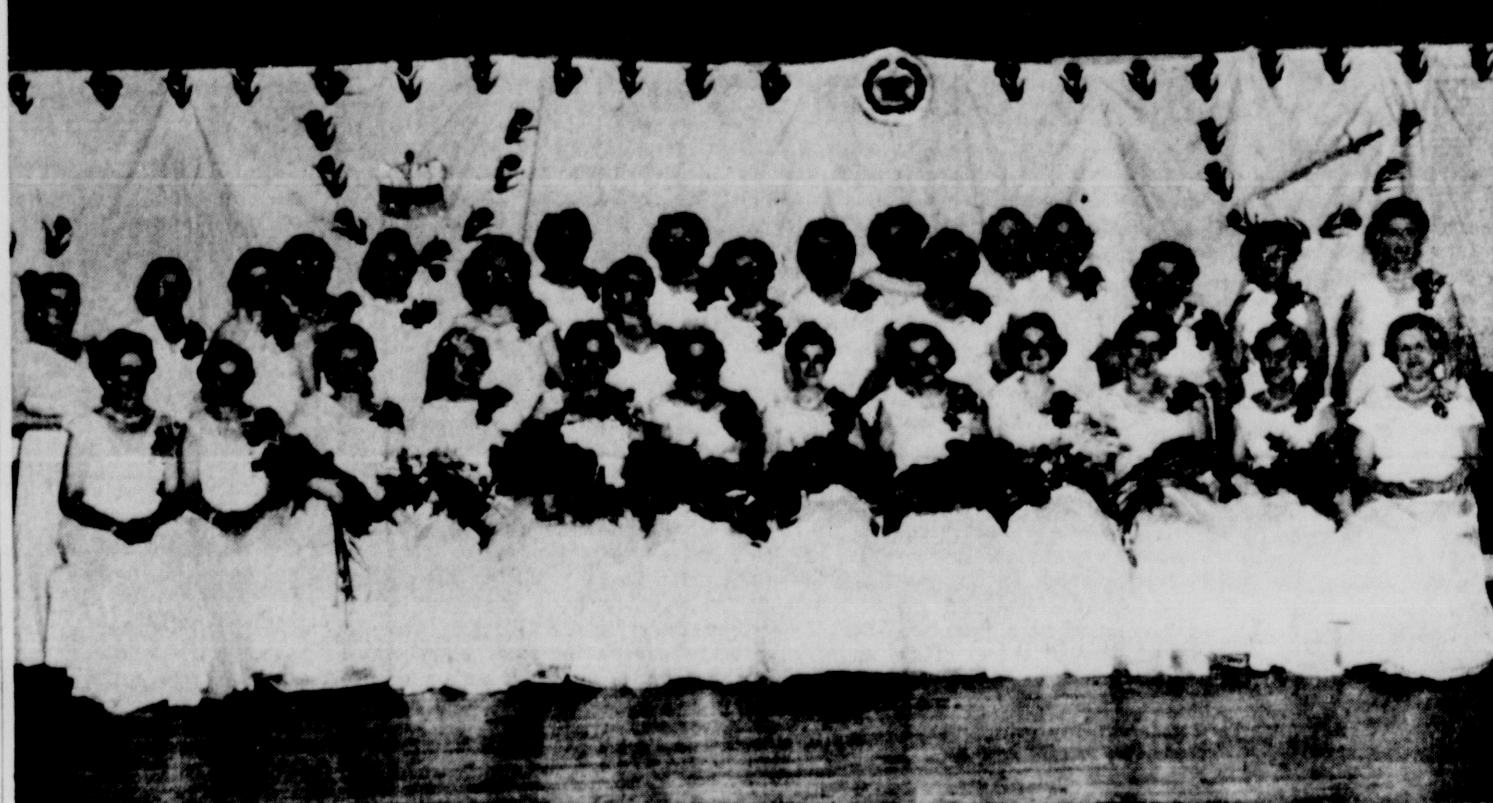

Barrett—The committee of the Barrett Community Club in charge of the April Fool Talent Show got serious when they started counting up the proceeds. Some $200 is no joke any time of the year.

In addition to the money to be used for its welfare projects, the committee also was prouning itself on the success of the show which filled the Buck Hill auditorium to the doors.

Prize winners chosen by a panel of three judges selected by the audience, were Bob Weidner, Scoutmaster of Troop 89, with folk songs with a guitar accompaniment, first; Kathy Kintner, Stroudsburg, acordion, second; and pre-schooler Jill Shoemith, soloist, who sang her song on crutches, despite a broken leg.

Other highlights included the professional opening by the American Legion instrumental group; the take-off of Elvis Presley by Jeri Dann; and climaxing the whole program the "top secret" performance of the fireman.

Refusing to give any prior hint of their "talent" the firemen brought down the house when they presented their own interpretation of a Woman's Club meeting.

SURROUNDED BY HER COURT, Royal Matron, Mrs. Ethel Miller, of Pocono is shown after the installation ceremony of Laurel Court, Order of Amaranth, with full pomp and ceremony. AROUND THE WORLD The Juniors go for ideas and costumes for their bazaar to be held on Saturday at the American Legion auditorium in East Stroudsburg. Here are some of the assorted nations to be represented: kneeling, Mrs. Howard Coslett and Mrs. Richard Phillips; standing: Mrs. Donald Brink, Mrs. Stanley Grace and Mrs. James Staples.

Around The World Bazaar Saturday To Benefit Junior's Welfare Projects

So far the Junior Woman's Club bazaar chairmen haven't come up with anything from outer space but they have canvassed the known world for gifts, ideas, costumes, decorations and articles for their big bazaar which will be held from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday at the auditorium of the American Legion in East Stroudsburg.

Theme of the bazaar is "Around the World with Juniors." Each booth will represent a different country with those in charge in authentic costumes.

There will be a background of music for the bazaar presented by Mr. Sleep, organist.

The art exhibit is growing and several new artists have been added to the list already announced: Mrs. John Farley, Barbara Wilson, Mary Bondra Weingartner, Mitchell Stackhouse and Parks Gross among others. The artists have offered to display their works for sale with a portion of the program going to the clubs.

At the candy booth, they will have everything from chocolate

Easter eggs to pop corn balls. They will also offer for sale the Candy Cookbook, "Sweets and Treats" compiled from the favorite recipes of club members.

At the baked goods booth, they plan to have homemade bread as well as pies, cakes, tarts and pastries.

A touch of Spring will mark the plant booth where they will offer orchids, violets, house plants, flowers and pussy willows.

At the holiday booth, they are offering hand made decorations for every holiday, including Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving and maybe the Fourth of July.

Hand-decorated candles for all occasions to dress the formal dinner table or holiday mantle will be featured in the candle booth.

To amuse the children, the Easter bunny himself will be present along with Mickey Mouse, and Easter baskets. The lollipop tree and duck pond have been planned for the children's amusement.

Refreshments from a snack to a supper will be available throughout the show.

Proceeds from the bazaar will be used for the club's welfare projects. This year the big project is the Child Health Committee, although they also contribute to The Red Cross, the Cancer Crusade, Community Chest, Children's Aid Society, Heart Fund, T. B. Society, March of Dimes, Pennsylvania Retarded Children and the Monroe County Clothing Fund.

Rebekahs Vote On Officers

Newfoundland—Participation in the election of State officers of the Rebekah Lodge took place during the first regular meeting of Ladies of Paupack Rebekah at the hall since December. Mrs. Robert Voeste presided.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business session by Stella Sieg, and Almeda, Mae, Gladys and Glenna Gilpin.

Named to the next refreshment committee were Kathryn Krautter, Helen Krueger, Nina Hopps, Cora Knoll and Eliza Heberling.

Michaels Class Supper

The Frank B. Michaels Class of Grace Lutheran Church School will meet tonight at 6:30 o'clock in the social rooms of the parish house for a covered dish supper. All members of the class and their families are invited to this Lenten fellowship.

Episcopal Luncheon Discussed

The Spring Luncheon of the Episcopal Church women to be held April 27 at 1 p.m. in the parish hall was the main item on the business agenda at the meeting of St. Mary's Guild on Tuesday at the church. Mrs. A. Starr Phelps led the devotion and Mrs. W. E. Andrew presided.

The group also announced a rummage sale to be held at 515 Main St., Stroudsburg on May 12, 13 and 14.

A Quiet Day will be observed at Christ Episcopal Church on May 25, beginning with Holy Communion at 10 a.m. and ending at 2:45. Sister Rachel from the Convent of St. Helena, Newburgh, N. Y., will be in charge.

A meeting of the board of governors of the Episcopal Church women was called for tonight at 7:30.

A demonstration was given by Mrs. Andrew of the Mind-Power Course of the Cambridge Institute with phonograph records dealing with memory, relaxation, sleep and vitality.

Mrs. Frank Sills and Mrs. Edward H. Calkins Sr. were hostesses and Mrs. Durell Mader poured.

Outdoor Training Tonight For Scout Leaders

East Stroudsburg Girl Scout Neighborhood leaders will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Methodist Parish house for advanced outdoor training given by Mrs. Roger D. Acker.

All the leaders are asked to dress for the out of doors and to bring all materials needed including "permission slips" from their husbands.

During a break in training the group will have a Koffee Klutch.

Cabinet Talks Had To Share Interest In Mamie's Dress With Monroe Co. Delegates

True women, the four Republicans from Monroe County returned from the eighth annual conference at Washington, D. C. with a complete description of the gown and new hairdo which Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower wore at the White House reception.

They also returned with a feeling of awe for the stamina of receiving lines, headed by Vice President and Mrs. Nixon who shook more than 3,000 hands in a little more than three hours and never once stopped smiling.

The group also heard speeches by U. S. Representative to the United Nations, Henry Cabot Lodge; Secretary of the Interior, the Hon. Fred Seaton; as well as Thurston Morton, Arthur Fleming and James Mitchell.

The conference was opened on Saturday by the White House reception when Mrs. Eisenhower received the delegates in five separate shifts. The President's wife personally greeted each delegate as she stood at the foot of the red carpeted grand stairway in the North Hall.

The first lady was wearing a pale orange and lemon yellow silk taffeta print dress with pearl accessories—and her new hair do.

The delegates passed, 550 of them every hour, in a schedule which permitted them all plenty of time to look around in the White House visiting the East, Red, Blue and Green rooms. The State dining room was a popular spot with its fountain of orange punch and decorated tables with tiny sandwiches and tea. At the reception on Sunday at the Sheraton Park Hotel, Vice President and Mrs. Nixon and members of the cabinet and administrative officials greeted the delegates.

A Jumbo Jamboree—in effect a mammoth campaign kick-off party—was held at the Uline Arena. Box lunches with chicken were distributed, 7,000 of them but still there were not enough to go around.

The Jamboree was also attended by President and Mrs. Eisenhower, the Nixons and cabinet members.

Sammy Kay served as master of ceremonies and entertainers included Mahalia Jackson, Sam Levenson, Roberta Peters, Lucille Cyriano, the Ralph Hunter Choir and many others.

Making the trip from the Monroe County Council were Mrs. Carl S. Wagner, president; Mrs. Spencer Cramer, Mrs. Jeannette Batory and Mrs. Olaf Pedersen. They will report in further detail at the next council meeting.

Countians Find New York Easy Visit With Friends

IF you want to get the most out of a trip to New York City, follow the advice of a group of Pike and Monroe County people who went there last week.

Their cue is simply this: let someone who knows the right people in the big city arrange the trip for you.

The "someone" in this case was Capt. Harold Auten, of Bushkill, operator of Bushkill Manor and a captain of the Port of New York for a six-year span that encompassed World War Two.

Capt. Auten and party left early Tuesday morning in separate cars. They met at the Hotel Astor, ate lunch and then were taken on a guided tour of the British luxury liner, Queen Elizabeth, largest passenger ship afloat.

Frederick Clark, who is a Turkish bath massuer while the ship is at sea, proved an able guide on the two-hour tour, taking the party into all areas of the big ship except the engine room and the bridge.

When the party expressed a desire to go up on the bridge, the guide politely informed the group that such was not possible as it was against regulations.

A call to Capt. Auten, who was re-awakening acquaintances with old friends in the captain's quarters, confirmed that a visit to the bridge was indeed a part of the planned tour, and he and several of the ship's officers would meet the party there momentarily.

This led a surprised officer who had joined the party as a guide to comment, "To ask that you be taken on the bridge is like asking to be taken into Heaven."

Once inside the sacred portals, the party inspected the intricate radar scopes, the telegraphs and other instruments used in steering the giant liner safely across the ocean. And they questioned the officers on a variety of subjects pertaining to the Queen Elizabeth and its sister ship, the Queen Mary, also a Cunard Liner.

From them and the chief guide, they learned that the Elizabeth weighs 83,673 gross tons, has 14 decks, is 1,031 feet long (five normal city blocks), 118 feet wide and measures 234 feet from keel to topmast.

More than 1,200 persons are required to man the liners on each trip between Southampton, England, and New York City. The Elizabeth accommodates 2,233 passengers, including 817 in first class, 660 in cabin class and 756 in tourist class.

POINTERS — Peter Jackson, junior first officer attached to Cunard's luxury ocean liner, the Queen Elizabeth, is pictured (at left) explaining how messages are relayed from bridge to engine room of giant ship. Area people who comprised his audience were (left to right) Ray Steele Jr., Lawrence DePue, Harold Reidmiller, Walter Stephens (face hidden), Capt. Harold Auten, William Schoonover and Ray Steele. Stephens lives in Stroudsburg, the others in Bushkill.

Lavishly appointed, the Elizabeth is a small city in itself and contains shopping centers, general hospitals, chapels, gymnasiums, swimming pools, a theater seating 338 persons, 35 public rooms including a first class restaurant with an area of 13,133 square feet. It also has spacious lounges, smoking rooms, dancing salons, cocktail bars, libraries, children's playrooms and small restaurants.

First class accommodations on a one-way voyage would cost the traveler in the neighborhood of $420, the guide told a questioner.

At 4:30 p.m., shortly after leaving the Elizabeth docked at Pier 90, the party taxied to Radio City Music Hall where Capt. Auten had arranged another tour, this one backstage.

The group met its young male guide at the side door and started on the trip through the mammoth theater, leaving Capt. Auten to talk over old times with his long-time friend, Charles Hacker, assistant to the president of Radio City Music Hall.

Emergency Funds Needed For Redevelopment Work

HARRISBURG (AP)—Emergency funds may be needed to keep Pennsylvania's urban redevelopment program from stalling in the last part of the current biennium, a Lawrence administration spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said the administration is considering the possibility of seeking a deficiency appropriation when the 1961 Legislature convenes in January.

The 1959 session cut in half an administration request of 10 million dollars to finance slum clearance and blight removal work.

Social Service Workshop Set

"Getting Down to Cases" is the subject to be presented by Paul E. Gesegren, supervisor, Probation Service, Delaware County Juvenile Court, at the Lehigh Valley Social Service Exchange Workshop on April 29 at Allentown.

The workshop will begin with a luncheon at 12:15 p.m. This will be followed by group meetings from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in which discussion will focus on the responsibility of Exchange members to practice inter-agency communication and on ways of putting this into action to achieve most effective collaboration among agencies.

Mrs. John S. Cartwright, president of the Social Service Exchange board, announced yesterday that invitations are being sent to the administrative and supervisory personnel of 80 agencies in Carbon, Lehigh, Monroe, Northampton and Pike Counties, Pennsylvania, and Warren County, N.J.

The discussion groups and their leaders include:

Group A — Carbon, Monroe, Pike and Warren County Agencies. Leader, Miss H. Eloise Bryan, Clinical Psychologist, Stroud Union School District, Monroe County.

Technical Advisory Personnel, Robert Keiber, County Supervisor, Northampton County Board of Assistance and Miss Caroline McNamee, Casework Supervisor, Warren County Welfare Board.

More than half of that amount already has been committed to work that can't go on without state aid, it was noted.

William A. Good, chief of the Commerce Department's Housing and Redevelopment Division, said paper work is being completed for grants totaling an additional $2,461,202 to five cities. They are Easton, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Windber.

State spending for urban renewal since the program started in 1959 has totaled $11,964,202 as of last March 1.

The federal government contributes two-thirds and the local government a third of the total costs of each project. The state generally pays one half of the sum put up by the community.

"Figures substantiate the fact that Pennsylvania by far is the most active state in the East in promoting urban redevelopment," said Good. "That is because communities are able to get help from the state."

He added Pennsylvania also holds a unique position in that its smaller cities, as well as the large ones, are busily engaged in wiping out slums and blighted areas. "But the fact is the work is being slowed up by a lack of funds."

He noted activity ranges from slum clearance to fighting a long-burning underground mine fire at Carbondale, which he called the only project of its kind in the country.

Motor Trend Magazine

Corvair named "CAR OF THE YEAR"

"Four-wheel independent suspension totally unlike any other U.S.-built car" . . . "air-cooled aluminum engine . . . not dependent on the properties of a liquid coolant" . . . a rear-mounted transaxle "allowing a flatter floor and a lower roofline. . . ." These are some of the praises heaped upon Corvair by the editors of Motor Trend—the world's largest general automotive magazine—in announcing their coveted Car-of-the-Year award. Other cars didn't even come close. The Motor Trend experts, who evaluated every make in the country, were unanimous in their decision, published in the April issue. But, unless you have personally driven a Corvair, you can't appreciate what this engineering achievement really means in combining compact car economy and agility with big car ride, room and sure-footedness. Drop down to your dealer's, take a trial drive and then judge the Car of the Year for yourself!

THE TUESDAY NIGHT "Startime" series on NBC will end in June, despite such feathers in its cap as the American TV debuts of Ingrid Bergman, Laurence Olivier and Alex Guinness, the reason being poor ratings. . . CBS wants Orson Welles as star of "Julius Caesar," either as a 90-minute production or in two one-hour installments.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Barbara Bel Geddes will co-star in "The Burning Court," second of the Hour of Great Mysteries, to be shown Sunday, April 24. Broadway funnyman Tom Ewell gets his first TV series next fall on CBS. An untitled situation comedy, it will be seen Tuesday nights at 9, which means that Mike Connors' "Tightrope" must find a new spot.

Dean Fredericks stars in the "Steve Canyon" series, which returns at 7:30 tonight on ch. 6 and 7 with "Crash Landing," in which Lt. Col. Canyon, while piloting a B-52 jet bomber from Brazil to California, must decide whether to risk the lives of all his crew in order to save one who is critically ill. . . On "The Donna Reed Show" at 8 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7, Donna's favorite charity winds up with $200 in the red from a local dance, so she decides to do her share for the cause.

James Stewart narrates "Cowboy Five Seven," a documentary rerun drama about a typical day in the lives of the men of the Strategic Air Command, on "Producers' Choice" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4. . . Walter Brennan, as Grandpa Amos McCoy, butts in and tries to make Little Luke keep a bargain—taking the most unattractive girl in the class to a school dance, after drawing her name out of a fishbowl—on "The Real McCoys" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7.

Raymond Massey stars with Cary Williams as a post-Civil War patriarch with a deep-rooted hate on "Dick Powell's Zane Grey Theater" at 9 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10. . . Shari Lewis brings some of her puppets along when she visits with Ernie Ford at 9:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4.

Robert Stack, as Elliot Ness, moving to stop the flow of alcohol to bootlegging operations, uncovers a scandal in a respectable drug firm in "Portrait of a Thief" on "The Untouchables" at 9:30 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7. . . Comedians Bob Elliot and Ray Goulding play a couple of "big spenders" on a simulated tour of "Night Clubs New York," at 10 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10. Among the stars Bob and Ray will see perform during the tour are Peggy Lee, Jose Greco and Felicia Sanders.

Newspaper Problems Discussed

TANNERSVILLE — Certain problems of newspaper people are the same whether, like the 30 students on the staff of the Pocono, they are working for the school newspaper or, like Bobby Westbrook for a daily paper.

Speaking at a staff meeting yesterday afternoon at the school, Mrs. Westbrook, editor of Family Page of the Daily Record, shared some of the problems with the editor of the Pocono, Jayne Starmer, and her staff in the school cafeteria.

What can you do to make old news seem fresh? What about the "gossip column" which students like but faculty discourages? How do you handle people who are in everything that's going on? How do you cut down on the length of your own writing? How do you choose a lead sentence?

These and other problems as well as the difference between newspaper reporting and creative writing were discussed in a informal session. Mrs. Margaret Coates is faculty advisor of the group.

Dear Abby

This, Too, Shall Pass

Dear Abby: My teenage daughter goes steady with a high-school boy with green teeth. I really mean it. It doesn't seem possible that in this day and age an 18-year-old boy could go around with such neglected teeth. I swear the inside of that boy's mouth hasn't felt a toothbrush in ten years. And I'm sure he hasn't seen a dentist in at least that long. It isn't a matter of finances either because this boy got a new car for his parents for his 15th birthday.

Every time he smiles (and he grins constantly) the green mold and cavities appear. What disturbs me is that my daughter isn't bothered about it in the least. When I asked her how she could stand to kiss him, she said, "Oh, muuuuu-thu!" How in the world can you wake up a boy or his family?

DISGUSTED

Dear Disgusted: Your hints, suggestions or recommendations would be neither appreciated nor welcomed. And stop needing your daughter. She probably thinks he's God's gift to women and she's not.

Car's Wheels Finally Take Pan's Life

LONDON (AP)—The wheels of a subway train have taken the life of Peter Pan.

The hospital entry says the man who died Tuesday night in a fall from a subway platform was Peter Llewellyn Davies, 68. But the young and old know better. It was Peter Pan.

More particulars about how death came to Peter Pan must await an inquest.

As a 10-year-old boy playing in Kensington Gardens, Davies became acquainted with a shy playmate by the name of James M. Barrie.

The boy, Peter, and his four brothers told Sir James about a place called Never-Never Land, about Capt. Hook the pirate, about Indians and a crocodile that swallowed an alarm clock.

And from this world of their imagination came the story and play of Peter Pan, the boy who could fly, who never wanted to grow up.

Peter Davies grew up to become not only godson of Sir James but his intimate friend until the playwright's death in 1937. By that time he had followed almost the only natural course for the boy who inspired great writing—he formed his own publishing house.

On Barrie's death, Peter Davies and his family inherited most of the author's manuscripts and private papers.

Peter left a widow and three sons.

Those who mourned Peter Llewellyn Davies could recall the words of Peter Pan himself in striving to understand Wendy and John and the other earthlings: "To die will be an awfully big adventure."

Raise Pike Phone Tolls

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Delaware Valley Telephone Co., with offices at Johnstown, N. Y., will raise its public coin box charge in Pike County, Pa., from five to 10 cents on Sunday.

The Public Utility Commission Wednesday authorized the increase after studying effects of the dime toll used by most other telephone firms.

The utility said the increase would produce an estimated $700 more annually and would be "commensurate with the cost of furnishing the service."

Hard To Send Money Back

PITTSBURGH (AP)—"I never knew it was so difficult to give back money," Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph Barr declared Tuesday.

Mayor Barr said this remark after he was told the way to return his state senator salary checks.

After taking office as mayor in January, Barr returned senator salary checks received after the first of the year. These came back, along with some new ones. The lot totaled some $18,000.

Dep. Atty. Gen. Martin H. Brackbill informed Barr he could get rid of the checks in any manner except sending them back to Harrisburg. He said in a letter:

"We have suggested to Miss Vera L. Frobert, assistant chief clerk in the State Senate, that she send checks to you for endorsement for deposit in the state treasury as a miscellaneous receipt."

SNEEZE TRAVEL
An ordinary sneeze travels two to three feet.

looking THAT gift in the mouth.

Dear Abby: Please tell me, have good manners gone out of style or not? For twenty years I have been sending get-well cards, birthday cards, anniversary cards, baby cards, and many other kinds of cards. Last year I sent out 256 cards, and only six people said, "I got your card and thank you."

Another thing I am called on to make cookies for the and cakes for that. They send a child after it and that's all I know. And while I am at it, what about people who are invited to a tea and don't bother to call to say they can't come—they just don't show up? I gave a tea and invited 28 people—only 9 came and I never heard from the others.

What's wrong with people today, Abby? Have they forgotten how to say thank you?

OLD-FASHIONED

Dear Old-Fashioned: Every generation produces its share of ill-bred folk who haven't the common courtesy to acknowledge a kindness. History is merely repeating itself.

Dear Abby: The people in the apartment next to ours have a 12-year-old daughter. She comes home right after school but she saves up all her piano practicing until 9:30 and 10 o'clock at night. Then she bangs on the piano for an hour straight.

We sometimes like to go to sleep at 9:30 or 10 because my husband isn't too well, but the noise keeps us up.

I have hinted to the mother several times, but she hasn't taken the hint. We're not the kind of folks who fight with our neighbors. Should I talk to the girl herself? Or should I drop the landlord a note?

Dear Disturbed: Just come right out and tell the girl's mother what is on your mind. If that doesn't work, ask the landlord to speak to the family. That might strike a responsive chord!

Confidential to "Lovely Hula Hands": After giving him back his ring he should accept the fact that the "engagement" is broken. If he continues to follow you—give him the back of your lovely hula hand.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teen-Ager Wants to Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

NO WONDER!
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Henry Harris, 65, said his car's motor seemed to be running too hot. He stopped and looked under the hood. Someone had stolen his radiator.

The hospital entry says the man who died Tuesday night in a fall from a subway platform was Peter Llewellyn Davies, 68. But the young and old know better. It was Peter Pan.

More particulars about how death came to Peter Pan must await an inquest.

As a 10-year-old boy playing in Kensington Gardens, Davies became acquainted with a shy playmate by the name of James M. Barrie.

The boy, Peter, and his four brothers told Sir James about a place called Never-Never Land, about Capt. Hook the pirate, about Indians and a crocodile that swallowed an alarm clock.

And from this world of their imagination came the story and play of Peter Pan, the boy who could fly, who never wanted to grow up.

Peter Davies grew up to become not only godson of Sir James but his intimate friend until the playwright's death in 1937. By that time he had followed almost the only natural course for the boy who inspired great writing—he formed his own publishing house.

On Barrie's death, Peter Davies and his family inherited most of the author's manuscripts and private papers.

Peter left a widow and three sons.

Those who mourned Peter Llewellyn Davies could recall the words of Peter Pan himself in striving to understand Wendy and John and the other earthlings: "To die will be an awfully big adventure."

Child Good Statistic For Curing Cancer

A CHILD is a mighty active—and convincing—statistic in the records of the Monroe County Cancer Society and was the youngest member on the program at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Division of the American Cancer Society at Pocono Manor.

Nine-year-old Maureen Gillespie is a lively statistic indeed for the Cured Cancer program, instead of a number on the mortality rates or list of the physically handicapped.

At her birth at the General Hospital on Feb. 21, 1951, the alert attending physician noticed a swelling on her right leg. He performed a biopsy, removing a portion of the swelling for pathological examination.

It was diagnosed as liposarcoma, a form of cancer originating in the fatty tissues of the body. It is an uncommon form of cancer at any age and extremely rare as a cancerous growth found at birth.

After the diagnosis had been established, Maureen, daughter of Joseph and Marie Gillespie of Cresco, was removed to Memorial Hospital in New York City. There an operation was performed to remove the growth when she was only ten days old.

Maureen remained in the hospital for nine months, receiving necessary treatment after surgery and being watched carefully for signs of recurrence of the growth. Since they did not develop, the staff was able to avoid amputation of the leg which they had at first feared might be necessary.

Nine years later, Maureen is in perfect health, an active child, and a bright student. She has no difficulties with her leg, although it still shows quite a large area of scar. She has been under constant supervision, reporting to the Follow-up Clinic at the General Hospital and returning to the Memorial Hospital periodically for check-up examinations.

Since the control of the various infectious diseases, cancer has become the second most common cause of death in children. Millions of dollars are being expended each year in research to conquer this killer. The American Cancer Society contributes a large share of the money for these research programs at medical centers throughout the United States.

The Monroe County Cancer Society, now in the midst of its 1960 Cancer Crusade, will conduct its porchlight parade to night. All residents are asked to have their porch lights on to guide the canvassers who will be out tonight canvassing their own neighborhoods.

Flaming Youth Is Urged To Join Fire Companies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Teenagers—tired of hot rods? Hanging around street corners? Then do something constructive. Join a volunteer fire department.

This is the advice of Arthur W. Espy, director of the Pennsylvania Fire Training School at Lewisburg. He told a safety engineer conference today that volunteer companies need new blood.

In a speech before the 35th annual engineering conference sponsored by the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, the fire expert said:

"We must encourage teenagers to join volunteer companies. We must restore life to fading organizations and support and encourage the groups that flourish. People must make time for sacrificial service."

He said the confident belief that there always will be volunteer firemen on the job may be shattered someday unless Pennsylvanians show a "revival of the spirit of devotion."

Espy added: "Pennsylvania relies primarily on volunteer firemen. Quite a few work or live remote from the fire house. In the first crucial moments, when it is essential to the preservation of human life, it often is hopelessly impossible for them to get to the fire house."

He defended the volunteers as often better trained than their professional cohorts because of "official failure in cities to provide for orderly instruction."

Espy added: "A recent test we conducted of full-paid fire fighters in one city found sadly lacking a universal understanding of the purpose and usages of the most common fire department tools."
